

I am a current subscriber to the Voom Satellite TV service, and I am against the sale of the Rainbow 1 Satellite to Echostar. Voom offers more High Definition programming than any other provider, and I think their presence in the industry is very positive for the transition to digital television. Because of Voom, I am receiving my local TV digitally on all of my TV's, and will consider purchasing more digital TV's in the near future.

Thank You.
